

Dr. Aaron Jacobson holds a doctorate in clinical psychology and is registered with College of Psychologists of BC (#2337). He has over ten years of experience working as a counselor and educator. He is committed to a collaborative and humanistic approach to counselling. Dr. Jacobson also conducts psychological assessments.

Dr. Jacobson has worked in a variety of settings, including correctional facilities, public schools, community clinics and hospitals. He has also worked as a foster parent. In his work as a family therapist and group facilitator, Dr. Jacobson has addressed a wide variety of problems, including drug and alcohol abuse, domestic violence, sexual abuse, anger management and both men's and women's issues.

Dr. Jacobson also has specific training in foster/adoption issues, trauma-focused Cognitive Behavior Therapy, Time-Limited Dynamic Psychotherapy, and caregiver support.

He believes that therapy should be conducted in the spirit of honesty and warmth, and that every person has their own unique path to change and growth.